

ChromaPlot

A red line graph is overlaid on the right side of the text 'ChromaPlot'. The line starts at a low level, remains flat for a short distance, then rises sharply to a high peak. After the peak, it drops and then exhibits several smaller, lower-amplitude oscillations before ending at a low level. This visual element suggests a chromatogram or a spectral plot.